Titan Lead Engine: how it works today

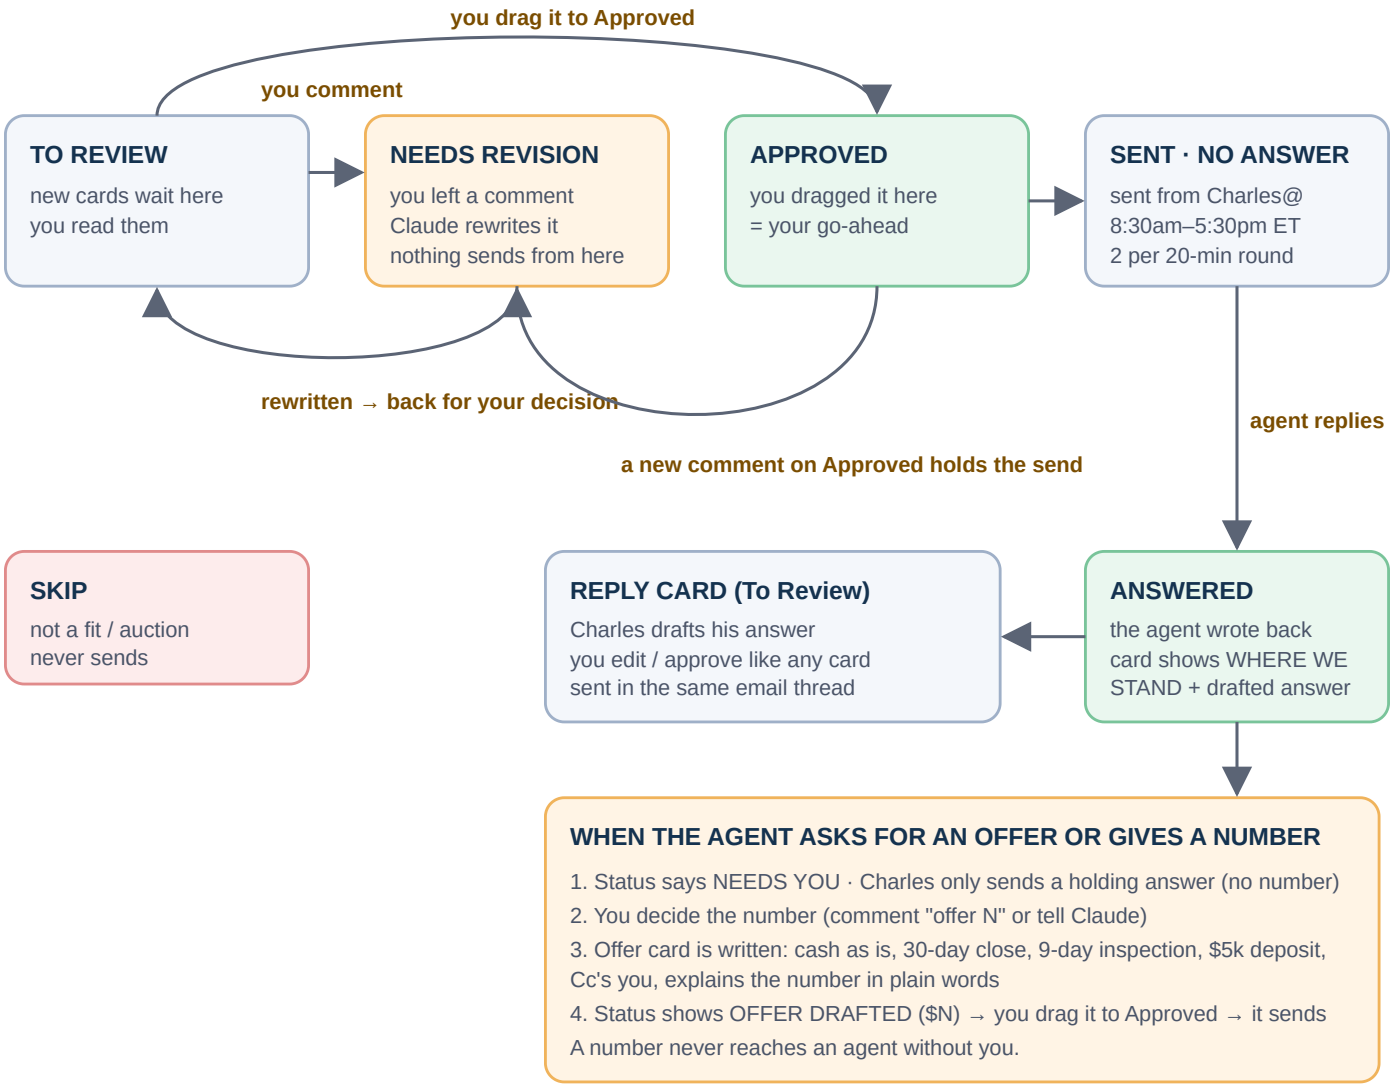

Monday, October 26, 2026 · listing to agent conversation to offer

1 · Every morning: from listings to email cards

7:00am: the morning report email (new listings, HOT leads, cards waiting, replies, trust ladder). Nothing is ever sent at this stage: every email waits for you on Asana.

2 · Your Asana board: what happens to a card

On every card: the agent's phone (tap to call), the listing link, the analysis behind the email. Type "send me a test" on any card to get a [TEST] copy in your inbox.

3 · Who does what, and when

Who	When	What
Your Mac (background jobs)	every 10 min	downloads the latest fixes automatically
	5:30am daily	scrape → score → value → rank → find agent → write first emails → cards
	7:00am daily	morning report to your inbox
	every 15 min	reads Charles's inbox · files replies · bounces · "remove me" · mirrors replies to Asana
	every 20 min, 8am–5pm	applies your comments · sends approved cards (8:30–5:30) · updates the Answered column · drafts reply cards
Cloud (Claude)	hourly, 8am–6pm (new today)	back-up: applies your card comments so edits don't depend on the Mac (needs the Asana connector added, see below)
	when you ask	deal analysis, comps, offer cards, fixes and new features
You	whenever	read cards · comment what to change · drag to Approved or Skip · decide offer numbers

The rules the engine follows on its own

Never sends without you	Only cards you drag to Approved go out. Only from Charles@titanrealtyinvestments.com (it refuses any other mailbox).
How Charles writes	"Hey Name," on its own line, short paragraphs, plain intro ("Charles with Titan Realty Investments. I saw your listing on ..."), one easy question. No price, no "we buy", no AI-sounding phrases.
Who we skip	bank-owned, short sales, auctions (now incl. bankruptcy / court / sealed bids), no-assignment, no-inspection, non-homes.
Learning from you	Every comment becomes a lesson used in the next emails. When you approve 80% as written over 30 cards, it asks you whether first emails can go out on their own.

4 · What's broken right now, and the fix

Claude is logged out on the Mac for the background jobs. That's why Asana says "couldn't rewrite… Not logged in" and your comments sit in Needs Revision.

Why: the background jobs can't use your Mac's normal Claude login, only a token saved in the `.env` file. The first try saved half the token (it prints on two lines), so it was refused.

Fix, once, at the Mac in Terminal:
`cd ~/Ai-Agent-Leads && git pull && make claude-login`
Log in → select the whole token (both lines) → Cmd+C → press Enter (don't paste). It should print OK. If it ever breaks again, a card appears in Claude Updates → Needs Rodrigo with this same fix.

The cloud back-up can't reach Asana yet. It was created without the Asana connector. Open claude.ai → Routines → "Titan · apply Rodrigo's card comments" → add the Asana connector. After that, your comments get applied within the hour even if the Mac is off or logged out.

Done today: Manuel Arce, Eddy Gervais, Saidelys Garcia, Eugene Schroeder rewritten with your comments (back in To Review); Jason Welt moved to Skip; the auction filter now catches bankruptcy / court sales.
Next: Richard Dipietro, 2327 Polk St, Hollywood: comps + what it resells for + a good offer at $4,500/month in rent, for you to look at before Charles answers.